

7.2.A VALUE CHAINS & POST HARVEST HOME INTERVIEW WORKSHEET

7.2.A INTERVIEW GUIDE

Interview goal: What information do you want to gather and why?

- The goal of my interview is to explore how the concepts of value and labor relate to aquatic food in my own family.
- The goal of my interview is to gather stories from women, elders, and younger members of my family about their experiences with the past, present and future of fishing in my community.

Introductory questions: questions that identify your interviewee, you can determine what is important to your project. Below are some examples.

- Name & Age
 - When a subject is sensitive, some people feel uncomfortable sharing their real name. You can ask them to provide a fake name or what is known as a pseudonym.
- Job or Type of work
- Current location or community's location

Background questions: Before getting into specifics it is always important to find out a bit of their life journey. This can be 1 or 2 questions. Below are some examples.

- How did you start working here?
- How was growing up here?

7.2.A INTERVIEW GUIDE

Interviewee 1: A woman involved in post-harvest labor.

- What is her role in the freshwater or seafood value chain?
- What is her perception of the value of her role?

Interviewee 2: The oldest member of their extended family.

- What memories do they have of the aquatic or seafood supply and value chain from their youth?
- How have things changed in regard to the people involved in the freshwater or seafood value chain?

Interviewee 3: One of the youngest members of their extended family.

- What perceptions do they have of the present state of their role in the freshwater or seafood value chain?

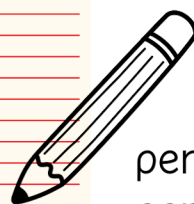

WHAT YOU MIGHT NEED:

voice
recorder
(optional)

notepad

pen or pencil

7.2.A INTERVIEW GUIDE

MY INTERVIEW GUIDE

My interview goal: _____

Introductory questions:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Background questions:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Specific questions to the theme:

Interviewee 1: _____

Interviewee 2: _____

Interviewee 3: _____

