

5.E BYCATCH CUTOUTS

Bycatch refers to the catch of commercial species (animals that are currently being sold to domestic or international markets) that are brought to shore. Fishers did not necessarily target these species. Bycatch can also refer to commercial species that cannot be landed because they are undersized or damaged. Bycatch could be species not sold at markets or incidental catch of endangered, vulnerable, or rare species like sea turtles, sharks, and marine mammals.

Print and cut out or draw your animals. Place it into the mix of elements. When participants come to sell and dump the contents of their catches, look out for these animals. Most likely, the participants representing the industrial boats will have "trawled" these endangered or vulnerable species.
